FBLA: opportunities

An integral part of the business curriculum at Appomattox County High School is Future Business Leaders of America, better known as FBLA, an organization for students enrolled in business and office programs.

FBLA activities provide opportunities for students to prepare for business and office occupations. Its members learn to engage in individual and group business enterprises; to hold office and direct the affairs of the group; to work with representatives of other youth organizations; and to compete honorably with their colleagues.

FBLA helps promote awareness of the social and economic opportunities and responsibilities in an increasingly complex society. It helps to develop the qualities of business and civic leadership in today's youth who are preparing to enter the world of work.

This summer the Future Business Leaders of America held its 32nd Annual Summer Leadership Training Conference at James Madison University in Harrisonburg on July 12-15. There were 344 members and advisers present, representing 89 local chapters throughout Virginia.

The Appomattox Chapter was represented by Chapter President, Mitzi Baldwin, and Longwood Regional President and Chapter Vice-Preside n t, Terri Nash.

This conference was a program planning workshop for the 1982-83 school year. Training sessons were held in Parliamentary Procedure, Chapter Management, Local Chapter Annual Report, Leadership Development, and the American Free Enterprise System.

FBLA, an organization on the move. Watch and listen for further happenings in this important part of the business education curriculum at A.C.H.S.

Buckingham Forest Fest planned for Oct 2

The Third Annual Buckingham Forest Festival will be held Saturday, October 2, 1982, from 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. on the Buckingham County High School Campus. The celebration is being sponsored by the Buckingham Ruritan Club to promote the forest industry which is vital to the economy of Buckingham and surrounding counties. Last year's Festival drew hundreds of persons to participate in Festival events.

Forest related activities are a key factor to the well being of Buckingham County. Eighty percent of the County is covered by timberlands. Twenty-two percent of the area's work force are employed in forest related vocations. Over 298,000 acres in Buckingham County are timberland. Buckingham's forest are being wisely used, with the rate of forest growth exceeding timber harvest by four million board feet for the latest year statistics are available, 1976.

The Forest Festival promises something to appeal to all. Contests planned include cross-cut sawing, box sawing, axe cutting, chain-saw cutting and log rolling. This year's Festival will also include a parade.

Both commercial and educational exhibits are being lined up. Companies manufacturing timber harvesting equipment are invited to show their products to Buckingham users. Entertainment from country music to chain saw carving will be on hand. Craftsmen producing wood products are encouraged to exhibit and sell their wares. A variety of foods and prizes will be available throughout the day.

Buckingham Ruritan s need the support of citizens of Buckingham County and Central Virginia to make the Festival a success.

Additional information may be obtained from Ruritan President, Aubrey J. Zumbro, 983-3235.

Two represent county

Darrell Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Conner, and Richard Conner, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Conner represented Appomattox at the annual Virginia Soil and Water Conservation District's Youth Conservation Camp. The program was held on the VPI & SU campus in Blacksburg during the week of August 8-13. Pictured with Darrell and Richard is Dr. Tom Simpson of the Va. Tech Agronomy Department.

The Youth Conservation Camp featured learning sessions on wildlife, forestry, soil, water and natural resource conservation. Included in the programs were tours of the Mountain Lake Biological Station, the Cascades Waterfall, Claytor Lake State Park, the VPI & SU Soils Lab, and visits to other areas of environmental importance. A highlight of the week's activities was a special slide show narrated by Dr. Franklin Flint, President of the Virginia Association of Soil and Water Conservation Districts, on his backpacking trip to Alaska.

Darrell and Richard earned their trip as members of the District winning 4-H Soils Judging Team in May. Their expenses were provided by the Robert E. Lee Soil and Water Conservation District which includes the counties of Appomattox, Campbell, Amherst and the City of Lynchburg.

ASCS Today

Program is changed

By Tom Conrad

USDA announces changes in farm storage facility loan program - The department of Agriculture has changed its farm storage facility loan program, to increase the number of farmers eligible for storage loans.

The changes will enable the USDA to lend farmers money to build facilities to store up to two years' production of eligible crops. These facilities will be in addition to any present on-farm facilities being used to store grain held in the grain reserve program. Previously, farmers were limited to borrowing to build storage for one year's crop, including storage used for the reserve program.

Only farmers who participated in USDA's acreage reduction programs will be eligible for the program.

New loans will be limited to a maximum of $25,000, but on a case by-case basis, farmers who have reserve grain stored on their farm and who have outstanding storage facility loans will be allowed to carry an aggregate loan balance of up to $50,000. For example, if a farmer had a $30,000 outstanding farm facility loan, the maximum he or she could borrow with a new loan is $20,000.

Another change provides that soybean production can be counted in determing storage needs under the program, provided there is a crop on the farm that is eligible for the reserve program.

The changes were made after a review of current storage situation and prospects for record feed grain and soybean crops. Farmers face a severe storage problem this year. These changes will help producers use the facility loan program ahead of harverst and will allow them to market their crops in a more orderly fashion.

Last month, USDA announced it would resume approval of new applications for farm storage facility loans, up to a total of $40 million. With the exceptions of the changes announced today, all other provisions of the program will remain the same.

USDA seeks comments on 1983 flue-cured tobacco program - The U. S. Department of Agriculture is seeking public comment to help determine the national marketing quota for the 1983 crop of flue-cured tobacco.

The 1983 quota will be based on an estimated 1983 disappearance of 1,023 million pounds and on any needed adjustment.

USDA estimates the total supply for 1982 at 3,135 million pounds based on a carry-over of 2,145 million pounds and estimated marketings of 990 million pounds. This figure excludes 13 million pounds of 1982-crop flue-cured tobacco USDA estimates will be marketed in 1983.

The estimated total supply for 1982 of 3,135 million pounds also is 588 million pounds above the reserve supply level, which now is forecast at 2,547 million pounds. However, USDA still is studying any needed adjustment to be made before establishing the 1983 quota.

The reserve supply level is determined by a formula set by law. This level equals the sum of a year's normal domestic consumption plus 175 percent of a year's normal domestic consumption, plus a year's normal export, plus 65 percent of a year's normal exports, plus 5 percent of that total.

Normal consumption and export levels are based on a 10-year average adjusted for trends.

As part of the comment process, USDA will hold a series of public meetings, the times and dates of which will be announced later.

Written comment on the quota should be sent no later than Oct. 26, to the Director, Analysis Division, USDA-ASCS, P. O. Box 2415, Washington, D. C. 20013. All comments will be avaiible for public inspection during regular business hours in Room 3741-S of USDA's South Building here.
